To my parents, Bobbie and Gerry Collins

Steven Collins was born in London in 1960. He grew up in Harrow and qualified as a lawyer (solicitor) in 1987, having done a Master's in Law at Trinity Hall, Cambridge. He then decided to make a complete change of career and went into T.E.F.L. (Teaching English as a Foreign Language). Having lived and taught in Italy and Spain, he returned to London in 1993 to write this book and to open his own school in Central London, specialising in practical English for advanced students. However, in 2008 he retired from teaching to concentrate full time on writing and publishing.

Introduction
HIGH-LEVEL EVERYDAY ENGLISH

Steven Collins

High-level Everyday English is the third book in the Practical Everyday English series.

All the books are designed for students who already have good English, but this third one is especially for those who have reached a very advanced stage in their English studies...but still need a little help with difficult vocabulary.

The method used is the same as in the previous two books, i.e. nearly all examples contain words and expressions which you will have studied either earlier in this book or in the other books. You should aim to study one lesson a week and revise each chapter when you finish it.

I hope, just as in the other books, you will also enjoy listening to the audio CD of the dialogues which appear at the end of each chapter. It will help you a lot in your listening comprehension.

Don't forget to do all the exercises after the dialogues to test yourself on what you have studied in each chapter. They will certainly keep your brain active.

Most importantly, I want you to feel confident and proud of your English. You have come so far already...and this book will help you go a little further.

Wishing you the very best of luck.
